DANGERS OF TRYING TO UNSEAT THE SLAVES. — The mischiefs of trying to unseat the slaves in the South threaten to be greater and more serious, unless the agitators desist from their work, than they probably imagine. We have seen what we did the dissolution of the Southern Confederacy, of the United States, and the terrible final consequences of that pestiferous course. We tell them now, as we told those other agitators, that they are playing directly into the hands of the most thoroughly radical elements of the radical party of the North. They are inviting another struggle upon the slaves, attempting to blind the shamblering members into a fresh field of conflict, and the idea is, that they will be victorious. Yain hope. They are only bringing new disasters upon the Southern people. The public sentiment of the country has been stimulated and roused in an extraordinary degree against slavery as the occasion if not the cause of the rivers of blood that have been shed and the multitude of graves that have been dug in the dreadful conflict that has just closed, and any attempt, no matter how specious, of one to reverse the institution, or to relax its hold, or to set it at liberty, only intensifies that sentiment and goes almost to madness. It gives influence and power to the most ultra class of politicians of the North who, with the offspring of slaves in their hands and the spirit of vengeance in their hearts, would erect the goliath in every town and village in the Southern States. These

ANCHOR.—ADVERTISEMENTS—ANNOUNCEMENTS.—See both the third and fourth pages.

We published in yesterday's Journal "More about the 17th corps," from Terrell. It will afford no great pleasure to publish the incidents of travel, skirmishes and battle, if the officers and men will be kind enough to give them to us. Thousands of incidents are well worth preserving and will be lost forever except to the few, unless the present opportunity is improved by the heroic soldiers of Sherman's gallant army. Are there no other "Terrells" in camp who will tell us and our readers

GOING.—We are indebted to Mr. J. N. Bray, the proprietor of the Anterior Saloon, Tenth street, between Market and Jefferson, for a specimen of the best old hornblow. It is really a splendid article, such, however, as Mr. Bray usually keeps on hand.

—We had several very refreshing showers on yesterday, which has rendered the weather quite pleasant.

KNIGHTS OF LANCASHIRE.—A negro boy belonging to Gen. Watkins was killed by lightning yesterday evening.

—We are indebted to N. C. Garfield for flus of Nashville papers.
